voglia di rivalsa. La sua donna è Marika, una bambola ricca e perfetta che non ama realmente, anche se si rivela essere un'ottima valvola di sfogo, quando il dolore sembra prevalere sulla speranza. Aley pensa che la sua vita sia finita dalla notte in cui ha perso Elian, la ragazza con cui sognava il matrimonio. Quando l'uomo conosce per caso Ladyan, durante un week end alle Hawaii, non crede ai suoi occhi. Lei è la copia vivente di Elian e impazzisce alla sola idea di lasciarsela scappare. Aley comincia un corteggiamento serrato per conquistarla, ma accade qualcosa di inatteso che, nella stessa notte in cui divampa la fiamma della passione, sembra riuscire a separarli per sempre. Riusciranno mai a liberarsi del bieco ricatto a cui li sottopone la vita?

Qualcuno è davvero in grado di spegnere la passione, quando provoca un incendio pronto ad ardere le viscere di chi si scopre sconvolgentemente pazzo d'amore?

ESTRATTO. Sono un vigliacco. Un bastardo. Qualcuno mi definisce sprezzante e randagio, ma io sono solo un uomo provato dalla vita e segnato nell'animo. Sono un pezzo di merda che ha dovuto annaspere per farsi avanti, per divincolarsi dal disastro che mi aveva agguantato con i suoi tentacoli, per farmi affogare nel mare malavitoso della mia esistenza. NOTA:

Quest'opera è indicata a un solo pubblico adulto, in quanto sono contenute scene esplicite che potrebbero urtare la sensibilità di chi non ama questo genere.

Space. Reality. Soul. A deadly threat emerged from the cosmos-and it was fulfilled. In the wake of Thanos's horrifying success, the people of Earth are left reeling in despair and confusion. Without any logical explanation for the blip-out event, those remaining must pick up the pieces. Doctor Erik Selvig and his associate Darcy Lewis are determined to find and understand the cause of the devastation. With a team of friends both old and new, they embark on a pursuit of knowledge, eager to discover the links between their own pasts and the stones that decimated half of humanity--the Infinity Stones. Little do they know that

Wives of the Leopard explores power and culture in a pre-colonial West African state whose army of women and practice of human sacrifice earned it notoriety in the racist imagination of late nineteenth-century Europe and America. Tracing two hundred years of the history of Dahomey up to the French colonial conquest in 1894, the book follows change in two central institutions. One was the monarchy, the coalitions of men and women who seized and wielded power in the name of the king. The second was the palace, a household of several thousand wives of the king who supported and managed state functions. Looking at Dahomey against the backdrop of the Atlantic slave trade and the growth of European imperialism, Edan G. Bay reaches for a distinctly Dahomean perspective as she weaves together evidence drawn from travelers' memoirs and local oral accounts, from the religious practices of vodun, and from ethnographic studies of the twentieth century. Wives of the Leopard thoroughly integrates gender into the political analysis of state systems, effectively creating a social history of power. More broadly, it argues that women as a whole and men of the lower classes were gradually squeezed out of access to power as economic resources contracted with the decline of the slave trade in the nineteenth century.

In these and other ways, the book provides an accessible portrait of Dahomey's complex and fascinating culture without exoticizing it.

The call comes from a troubled man. Someone, he says, is trying to kill him. He can't divulge more over the phone, but Felix Berg wants to meet. At midnight. Out by the lighthouse at Howth. Reluctantly, Saxon agrees. Soon former FBI agent-turned-true-crime-writer Saxon is plunged into the heart of a series of apparently motiveless murders that is gripping the city. Four times the gunman known as the Marxman has struck and four times the Dublin Metropolitan Police murder squad have drawn a blank. Could the answer be found in the dark

A breakneck tour of a dysfunctional childhood, heroin, punk rock and the heyday of The Ramones. The tour guide? None other than the legendary Dee Dee Ramone. Internal wrangling, gruelling tours and methadone clinics form a backdrop to Johnny Thunders and Stiv Bators succumbing to their addictions, Dee Dee's girlfriend overdosing, Sid Vicious shooting up with toilet water and Phil Spector holding the band up at gunpoint in his Beverly Hills mansion. A gripping story from the now sadly deceased Ramone.

A moving portrait of Africa from Poland's most celebrated foreign correspondent - a masterpiece from a modern master. Famous for being in the wrong places at just the right times, Ryszard Kapuscinski arrived in Africa in 1957, at the beginning of the end of colonial rule - the "sometimes dramatic and painful, sometimes enjoyable and jubilant" rebirth of a continent. The Shadow of the Sun sums up the author's experiences ("the record of a 40-year marriage") in this place that became the central obsession of his remarkable career. From the hopeful years of independence through the bloody disintegration of places like Nigeria, Rwanda and Angola, Kapuscinski recounts great social and political changes through the prism of the ordinary African. He examines the rough-and-ready physical world and identifies the true geography of Africa: a little-understood spiritual universe, an African way of being. He looks also at Africa in the wake of two epoch-making changes: the arrival of AIDS and the definitive departure of the white man. Kapuscinski's rare humanity invests his subjects with a grandeur and a dignity unmatched by any other writer on the Third World, and his unique ability to discern the universal in the particular has never been more powerfully displayed than in this work.

Lydia Lunch was the primary instigator of the No Wave movement, and the focal point of the Cinema of Transgression. A musician, writer and photographer, she exposes the dark underbelly of passion. Paradoxia contains frank and often shocking confessions. Lunch relays in graphic detail a predator's diary, revealing the true psychic repercussions of sexual misadventure.

Collected from LaBossiere's regular column in The Philosopher's Magazine, this fascinating set of philosophical provocations assumes no background in philosophy and focuses on matters that are of popular interest to the general public, yet are also philosophically significant.
