The first thing to do before addressing any wound is to perform an overall assessment of the patient. An acronym used to guide this process step by step is HEIDIE:

History- The patient's medical, surgical, pharmacological and social history.

Examination- Of the patient as a whole, then focus on the wound.

Let's take an in-depth look at what wound assessment is and why it is important.

Wound assessment is vital: without a thorough wound assessment, you will be unable to formulate a plan of care, gauge the progress of healing and judge whether your current wound care therapy is effective. Wound assessment is informed: when we perform a wound assessment, we are guided by observation, questioning, physical examination and clinical investigation in order to plan our care of a patient's wound.
