- Full of activities designed to build confidence when using reflective practice
- Each chapter is linked to relevant NMC Standards and Essential Skills Clusters

This book is a clear and practical guide to help students develop critical thinking, writing and reflection skills. It explains what critical thinking is and how students should use it throughout their nursing programme. This new edition also provides an innovative new framework that helps students appreciate different levels of critical thinking and reflection to help nursing students appreciate the requirements of degree level study. The book demonstrates the transferable nature of critical thinking and reflection from academic contexts to the real practice of nursing. Key features

- Clear and straightforward introduction to critical thinking directly written for nursing students, with chapters relating the subject to specific study and practice contexts
- Student examples and scenarios throughout, including running case studies from four nursing students and further annotated examples of student 's work on the website
- Each chapter is linked to the new NMC Standards and Essential Skills Clusters

The Australian Nursing and Midwifery Council has issued core competency standards for registered nurses. Those using the standards include registered nurses, state/territory NMRA's as part of the license renewal process, those involved in professional conduct matters, consumers, and universities. The competencies are organized into four domains: professional practice, critical thinking and analysis, provision and coordination of care, and collaborative and therapeutic process.

The “ wrenching but inspiring ” true story of a tragic medical mistake that turned a grieving mother into a national advocate (The Wall Street Journal). Sorrel King was a young mother of four when her eighteen-month-old daughter was badly burned by a faulty water heater in the family 's new home. Taken to the world-renowned Johns Hopkins Hospital, Josie made a remarkable recovery. But as she was preparing to leave, the hospital 's system of communication broke down and Josie was given a fatal shot of methadone, sending her into cardiac arrest. Within forty-eight hours, the King family went from planning a homecoming to planning a funeral. Dizzy with grief, falling into deep depression, and close to ending her marriage, Sorrel slowly pulled herself and her life back together. Accepting Hopkins ' settlement, she and her husband established the Josie King Foundation. They began to implement basic programs in hospitals emphasizing communication between patients, family, and medical staff—programs like Family-Activated Rapid Response Teams, which are now in place in hospitals around the country. Today Sorrel and the work of the foundation have had a tremendous impact on health-care providers, making medical care safer for all of us, and earning Sorrel a well-deserved reputation as one of the leading voices in patient safety. “ I cried . . . I cheered ” at this account of one woman 's unlikely path from full-time mom to nationally renowned
